

ScienceDaily®

Your source for the latest research news

NEW: Find great deals on the latest gadgets and more in the ScienceDaily Store!

Science News

from research organizations

Cyberbullying: A growing problem

Date: February 22, 2010

Source: University of Gothenburg

Summary: Around 10 percent of all adolescents in grades 7-9 are victims of internet bullying. "This type of bullying can be more serious than conventional bullying. At least with conventional bullying the victim is left alone on evenings and weekends," says one of the researchers.

Share:

FULL STORY

Around 10 percent of all adolescents in grades 7-9 are victims of internet bullying. "This type of bullying can be more serious than conventional bullying. At least with conventional bullying the victim is left alone on evenings and weekends," says one of the researchers.

